FLEXIBLE. ONLINE. STATE OF THE ART.

Building on decades of leadership in online education, we continually raise the bar in quality and engagement for the thousands of UTA students who choose online learning to expand their horizons.

Guided by the vision of UTA faculty and staff who are committed to excellence in online teaching and learning, we provide students across the world the same careful consideration they'd receive on campus, thanks to our professionally designed online courses and our tech-savvy faculty.

Program depending, you can take advantage of flexible start dates and accelerated terms. This allows you to put your degree to work sooner. No matter which online program you pursue, you can complete your coursework 100% online, and you'll engage with a culturally responsive curriculum that creates a more inclusive learning environment and engaging experience.

These are some of the world's premier online programs for busy adults, and they're available only at The University of Texas at Arlington.

FEATURED PROGRAMS

The University of Texas at Arlington College of Education is excited to offer these 100% online programs for educational leaders.

Whether you're seeking to increase your impact and influence as a future administrator, hone your expertise to reach and inspire students of all abilities, incorporate the latest technologies into your curriculum, or take your career from the classroom to the boardroom, these intelligently designed graduate degrees from UTA will ignite your passion and redefine your pedagogy.

Instructional and Learning Design Technology (ILDT) Master of Education & Graduate Certificate Programs

Designed to help educators personalize curricula, streamline teaching practices, and develop more engaging opportunities for learners of all kinds, the Master of Education in Instructional and Learning Design Technology is the program for inspiring teachers and trainers everywhere.

Every ILDT principle covered is woven into the fabric of the curriculum. That's the true power of the program. Students not only read and discuss universal design, they come to know it firsthand.

For education professionals and instructors seeking to upskill but who do not need their master's degree or who simply cannot make the commitment to one, UTA is excited to offer the same paradigm-shifting ILDT education in a 12-credit graduate certificate. The Graduate Certificate in Instructional and Learning Design Technology is ideal for corporate professionals responsible for creating modern virtual communities and PreK-12 teachers who seek to integrate new technologies into their evolving curriculum. Certificate completers will gain many of the same insights as their Master of Education peers but in an abbreviated timeline.

Check out the recording of our virtual information session with Program Director Dr. Hugh Kellam, who will answer all your questions about admissions deadlines and requirements, course overviews, scholarship opportunities, and more. If you are interested in either the M.Ed. or certificate program in ILDT but need more information, please schedule an appointment with our dedicated academic recruiters who are standing by to help you reach your goals.

Curriculum and Instruction – Literacy Studies

Master of Education Program

For those aspiring to obtain their Reading Specialist or ESL certification and who wish to specialize in literacy studies, UTA is proud to offer one of the top Curriculum and Instruction – Literacy Studies programs in the country. Since our inaugural class in 1998, 100% of our students who have taken the Texas Education Agency’s Reading Specialist Exam pass within their first two attempts.

Students of the program will benefit from an extraordinary faculty, many of whom are active leaders in the effort to revise the State and National Reading Specialist standards and work with Texas on the science of teaching reading curriculum.

The M.Ed. in Curriculum and Instruction - Literacy Studies will expand any education professional’s career opportunities and may open the door to a higher salary.

This accelerated, 30-credit-hour master’s program offers multiple start dates to accommodate your career and can be completed in as few as 18 months. Eligible graduates of the program can take Texas’ ESL and Reading Specialist certification exams.

Some applicants may be eligible for TEACH Grants. For more information, interested students are encouraged to contact our dedicated academic recruiters by scheduling an appointment or calling 817-272-2956.

Special Education

Master of Education Program

For current teachers seeking the expertise and career opportunities to educate and inspire students with disabilities, this 30-credit-hour, accelerated track can be completed in as few as five semesters and offers a fall start date only.

Careful observation is a critical first step to enhancing student motivation in achievement contexts. With a heavy emphasis on behavioral analysis, our fully online M.Ed. in Special Education equips education professionals with in-demand skills to meet the academic needs of students with disabilities.

Program participants will be able to take their education and immediately apply it to their classrooms. Additionally, teachers may conduct applied research in their current classrooms and bring their empirical findings back to their peers for discussion and additional learning opportunities. This real-time feedback loop has proven valuable to both educators in the program and the students they serve.

Interested education professionals should review our recorded information session, which covers everything from course requirements to program benefits, career opportunities, and more. Educational Leadership and Policy Studies

Designed for classroom teachers to build upon their existing leadership experiences, the Educational Leadership and Policy Studies program will prepare eligible education professionals for the required principal exams and to become certified principals or assistant principals in Texas.

This accelerated program features progressive skills aimed at raising student achievement, improving educator performance, and increasing the effectiveness of educational institutions in multiple contexts.

With a heavy emphasis on coaching teachers and instructional leadership, students in the program will benefit from principal panels and facilitated dialogues with successful program alumni and other educational leaders. These opportunities give students access to multiple perspectives on the most current trends in leading teaching. Additional program focuses include data-driven decision-making, change management, and issues related to educational equity.

Interested students are encouraged to view our recorded information session, which covers course requirements, learning opportunities, timelines, admissions requirements, the application process, and more. STRENGTH IN OUR DIFFERENCES

We're honored to serve our veterans and their families, first-generation students, and rising professionals from all backgrounds. Our student community is one of the most diverse in the nation – representing every state and over 100 countries – and our students exemplify excellence in all they do.

"Many of the things I've learned as part of my coursework have been immediately incorporated into my work with my students. As an interventionist, I work with all elementary grade levels, and many of my students are English Language Learners. In Practicum 2, I've been learning a great deal about the process of language acquisition and sheltered instruction that I have been able to incorporate into my daily lessons with my students."

- Tracey Smith, online M.Ed. graduate

AFFORDABLE AND ACCESSIBLE

In the spirit of our commitment to student success, we take every step to raise the bar on quality, life-enhancing education. Of the over 4,000 colleges and universities in the nation, we rank 56th for the least amount of debt among graduates according to U.S. News & World Report in 2023. Our graduates are also among the highest first-year median wage earners in the state of Texas.
